Call in news tips to 378-3630; other calls 378-2957

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan assailed on Monday the special interest groups standing in the way of his economic recovery program and pleaded with urban leaders to realize that "the only power needed to restore America's strength is love."

In his first formal speech since he advanced his budget and tax-cutting plan to Congress on Feb. 18, Reagan complained to the National League of Cities that a "political gauntlet of interest groups" threatens to dismantle it.

While some have raised legitimate concerns, he said, "I'm finding it increasingly difficult not to call some of them selfish interest groups."

The president acknowledged that cities would suffer their share of cuts. But he declared that "we are all in the same boat, and we have to get the engines started before the boat goes over the falls."

Reagan assured the urban leaders that he would preserve the "function" of the Urban Development Action Grants Program, which formed the centerpiece of Jimmy Carter's urban policy and quickly became a favorite of the nation's mayors.

And while the recovery plan calls for reducing federal subsidies to cities, Reagan said he had tried to "cushion the budget blows" by making block grants to local governments.

The president drew polite applause from an audience of several thousand representatives of cities and towns, especially when he attacked the "federal Goliath" — unleashed and uncontrolled.

Reagan noted there has been some congressional opposition to his call for a three-year, 30-percent tax cut.

"Nevertheless," he said, "the real threat to recovery comes from those who will oppose only a small part of the program while supporting the overall effort. Needless to say, the small portions these parol groups oppose always deals with cuts that affect them directly. Those cuts they oppose.

"They fear cutting everybody else's subsidy as an important step in ending inflation and getting the country moving again. The accumulative effect of this shortsightedness can be damaging," he said.

He repeatedly referred to the dangers of inaction. "For a time, it appeared that Congress had more solutions than the country had problems," Reagan said.

"Inflation, unemployment — all of it — was basically caused by decisions that we as a people made," Reagan said.

New rule increases student parking lots

By JIM CLEMANS
Universe Staff Writer

After visual monitoring and a survey of parking on campus and in controlled areas, a proposal for increased access to campus after 4 p.m. has been approved by the administration, according to a University Traffic Committee member. Lt. Michael Harroun, manager of office services and a traffic committee member, said a change in parking restrictions will allow parking on campus in all zones after 4 p.m. except lots 3A, 4A, 10A, and 11A.

The hours of restricted parking in these four areas will remain from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m.

"The reason for this change is to make parking stalls available for evening class students, student employees and the elderly who frequent the library," Harroun said. "This change will allow the wives and husbands of faculty members access to campus for evening classes and other activities."

"Female employees working on campus during the evening hours will be able to park closer to their work."

David Sorenson, dean of students and chairman of the University Traffic Committee said the new parking rules will provide greater security for female students who work and study late, and who would otherwise have to park outside the controlled area and walk in.

"The new change will more efficiently utilize vacant parking in these lots in the late afternoon and evening hours," said Sorenson.

Keith Smith, chairman of evening classes, said, "Evening classes generally begin at 5:10. If classrooms are available the change could help us move classes up earlier."

According to Harroun, a survey taken in the late afternoon and evenings on Jan. 29 and 30 and Feb. 2 had shown that only a small portion of the lot space in Lot 3A was being used by faculty members.

"Parking stalls were open and a large majority of the stalls were being used by students illegally," said Harroun.

"The change in restricted parking hours in Lot 3A and other lots will make it easier for us and for the public," he said. "The restrictions were creating needless friction and tickets."

"It is better to change the laws than ignore them," he said. "You get into trouble when you start turning your face to violations. You must be consistent."

Elder Dunn to speak during Devotional

Elder Paul H. Dunn, of the LDS Church First Quorum of Seventy, will speak at the Devotional Assembly today at 10 a.m. in the Marriott Center.

The Devotional will be broadcast on KBYU-FM radio and televised on KBYU-TV, Channel 34. Times: tonight at 8, Wednesday at 2 p.m. and Sunday at 8 a.m.

Elder Dunn has been a member of the First Quorum of Seventy since 1974. He is the author of 16 books. A graduate of Chapman College, Elder Dunn received a masters degree and a doctoral degree in educational administration.

He served as coordinator of LDS Institutes of Religion in Southern California for several years prior to his call to be a General Authority.

Elder Dunn participated in baseball, football, basketball, golf and track while in high school. He played professional baseball for four years with the St. Louis Cardinals.

In 1972 he was named Utah's Father of the Year. He and his wife, the former Jeanne Cheverton, have three children.

El Salvador

End to bloody conflict sought

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — President Jose Napoleon Duarte said Monday he is ready to meet with representatives of the Socialist International to seek a political solution to the bloody rightist-leftist conflict here.

At the same time in Panama, Benet Carlson of Sweden, the secretary general of the Socialist International, said the most important leftist and guerrilla groups in El Salvador had accepted the group's mediation offer.

The group is an international organization of social democratic parties which have a political philosophy of gradual, non-revolutionary movement to socialism.

Carlson said the groups agreeing to mediation were the Democratic Revolutionary Front, an umbrella organization which includes several leftist groups and the Farabundo Marti Front for National Liberation, a coalition of guerrilla groups.

Carlson said he would meet in Washington on Tuesday with State Department officials and offer the mediation services of former West German Chancellor Willy Brandt, a Social Democrat, to begin talks with President Reagan.

The United States provides military and economic aid to El Salvador's ruling civilian-military junta and has accused the Soviet Union of giving military aid to the anti-government guerrillas through third parties, particularly Cuba.

Guillermo Manuel Ungo, president of the Democratic Revolutionary Front, is also the leader of the National Revolutionary Movement, which calls itself a social democratic party.

Ungo already has rejected a personal meeting with Duarte, but said in Panama early Monday that the Front's position in the future would be explained through the mediators.

The Socialist International's Committee for Latin America on Sunday rejected any kind of foreign intervention in El Salvador and recognized the Democratic Revolutionary Front as the "legitimate representative of the Salvadoran people and a valid spokesman for" peaceful solution.

In other developments Monday, military sources claimed success in a four-day operation against guerrilla groups in the hilly country near the Nicaragua border, but they gave no details on casualties.

The conflict in El Salvador cost 12,000 lives last year according to Human Rights Commission figures. The victims died in clashes involving the army and guerrillas or paramilitary groups backed by rightist organizations.

Duarte's statements Monday opened the possibility of a meeting with leaders of the Socialist International later this month while he is in Europe attending a meeting with European politicians.

He also said that Salvadoran social democrats "suffered from ideological aberrations" and "have lost all perspective of what is social democracy and the objectives of justice and democracy that are achieved only with the people's participation."

Voting begins Wednesday

ASBYU primary elections will be held Wednesday and Thursday at six locations: the north side of the Harold B. Lee Library, the lounge of the Clyde Building, the bookstore entrance, the ELWC Stepdown Lounge, the Cannon Center and the Morris Center.

Voting on Wednesday will begin at 8 a.m. and end at 5 p.m. Voting in the Morris and Cannon Centers will end at 8 p.m. All primary voting will end at 4:30 p.m. Thursday. Voting will require a current activity card.

Candidates for ASBYU offices to present platforms to students

Students will continue to have the opportunity today to meet candidates for ASBYU offices, at the student awareness displays on the Wilkinson Center west court patio, said Gary Ogden, project director.

"We feel this is the best time for candidates to meet the student body, and the student body to learn about their candidates," said Ogden. "It can be a really profitable time for both parties, if they'll take advantage of the experience."

The awareness projects also gear the candidate toward working with students and accepting suggestions from them, Ogden said.

While talking to the candidates, students should look for their experience in student government or equivalent areas, he added.

"If they have shown themselves to be responsible in the past," he said, "it's a fair assumption they'll be able to handle a job once they're in office."

Ogden also suggested students look for the candidate's ability to communicate and his capacity to respond to their questions and concerns. Last of all, students should make certain the candidate wants the office for the sake of making BYU a better university and helping the student body.

For this reason, Ogden is stressing that the candidates make their booths a source of information, not hard-sell campaigning.

"The student should come away from the booth knowing what the candidate stands for," he said, "not holding 20 different campaign flyers."

The real question in the elections, Ogden said, is not the candidate's philosophy on how ASBYU should be run, but rather how able and willing he is to work.

Upcoming student awareness projects will be held March 9-12, with checkerboard quad booths being manned March 11 and 12, Ogden said.

Presidential team reinstated

By NOLAN CRABB
Assistant News Editor

The team of Carol Baker/Gary Novak are back in the ASBYU presidential race despite missing last week's nominating convention, while other candidates are having their posters mysteriously disappear.

Jim McCall, spokesman for the Baker/Novak team, said there had been a misunderstanding between the candidates and the elections committee about the convention.

"Both candidates had prior commitments and weren't able to attend the convention until its end," McCall said. "We were told the convention would end at about 11:30, when it actually ended at 11."

Elections committee workers removed the team from the race when they did not show up at the convention.

Committee members said they did not remember speaking with anyone from the Baker/Novak staff and ASBYU Elections Committee Chairman Susan Hollingsworth said as of Friday, she had never personally met or seen Miss Baker or Novak.

Miss Hollingsworth allowed the team to be formally nominated over the weekend, in the elections committee office, to fulfill requirements for candidacy. Their names will appear on the ballot.

She said she also took their poster and put it on display in the Cougarart alongside those of the other candidates.

In other elections action, Miss Hollingsworth said she had received complaints from candidates that several posters are mysteriously disappearing and no one knows who's taking them.

"A prime example is that of Winfield/Stone," she said. "They have reported the loss of 22 of their banners which they've put up in recent days."

But Perluss said opponents from the Creation-Science Research Center in San Diego could try to prove that the teaching of evolution as the sole theory of the development of life on earth violated some of the state's religious rights.

The center's lawyer, Richard Turner, contended the state's policy was "essentially hostile to religion."

The trial pitting science against religion stems from a suit filed in 1979 by Kelly Segraves, the research center's director. He filed it on behalf of his three children, who attend public school, claiming that the state illegally prohibits the teaching of scientifically supported biblical accounts of creation.

He and his supporters say both the "creationists" version and the evolution theory developed by Charles Darwin are part science and part religion and should be taught together as theories.

However, the California Board of Education's 1978 science textbook guidelines refer only to evolution, treating it as a theory about the development of life forms generally accepted by scientists. The theory states that the universe was formed about 18 billion years ago through an explosion called "the big bang" and that subsequently, as Darwin outlined, living things evolved from a common ancestor through natural selection.

The creationists, on the other hand, contend they have scientific evidence that God created the world in six days, including every form of life in its present state. They say there is evidence the earth is only about 10,000 years old.

Separate guidelines for social studies texts allow treatment of divine creation along with other beliefs about the origins of life.

Tyler said the suit is the first of its kind in California, but as fundamentalist religions grow nationwide, the suit could have national implications.

Aircraft missing since Saturday

Poor weather conditions on Monday stifled search efforts for a Cherokee 6 aircraft enroute to Provo, missing since Saturday, and authorities in Arizona are still searching for a second aircraft believed missing on a flight from Salt Lake City to Phoenix, a Utah Civil Air Patrol spokesman said.

Dan Lee, a flight instructor and certified weather observer for Provo Aviation, said a Cherokee 6 with six persons aboard left Page, Ariz., at 3 p.m. Saturday enroute to Provo. It was supposed to have arrived in Provo about 5 p.m., he said.

Utah CAP Maj. Bud Chandler identified some of the passengers as Paul Sampson of Provo, Carl Smith, Ogden, and his brother, Vern Smith, Warden, Wash. Chandler said the men's wives were also aboard, but their names were not available.

Chandler said Vern Smith, the pilot, did not file a flight plan. He said the pilot had called relatives in Provo Saturday to have them meet the plane at the airport.

Sheriff's officers in Coconino County, Ariz., searched Monday for a plane described as a red and white Piper Tri-Pacer High-Wing. Authorities said the pilot, who is unidentified, radioed at 7:13 p.m. Sunday that he was in bad weather and he believed himself to be about 15 miles south of Page.

In court battle

Creationists vs. evolutionists

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — A court battle reminiscent of the historic Scopes "monkey trial" opened Monday after a judge refused to dismiss a civil suit brought by fundamentalists who want California schools to teach the theory of creation alongside evolution.

Superior Court Judge Irving Perluss, saying that the plaintiffs had a right to try to prove their children's rights were being violated, rejected the dismissal motion by a state lawyer at the outset of a heavily publicized non-jury trial.

Deputy Attorney General Robert Tyler contended the state had the right to make an "educational decision" about teaching the theory of evolution, instead of divine creation, in science classes.

But Perluss said opponents from the Creation-Science Research Center in San Diego could try to prove that the teaching of evolution as the sole theory of the development of life on earth violated some of the state's religious rights.

The center's lawyer, Richard Turner, contended the state's policy was "essentially hostile to religion."

Body remains unidentified

The identity of a man's body, found Sunday along I-15 near Springville, is still unknown and under investigation by the Utah County Sheriff's Department.

Gladys Murry, chief dispatcher, said the man, a male caucasian between 20 and 30 years of age, is believed to be the victim of a homicide. The results of an autopsy performed Monday will be available later this week and will assist in determining the exact cause of death, she said.

The body was found Sunday morning by two Geneva Steel employees as they drove along the highway to work. The body was found between the two Springville exits.

Week begins worldwide fun

By MICHELE DILL
Universe Staff Writer

Booths, displays, a mini-United Nations, dancing, movies, an international fashion show and dinner, and an international talent spectacular will all be part of International Week, sponsored by the International Student Association, said Nanyana Charoenying, International Week chairwoman.

Booths and displays featuring food, crafts, music and slides from more than 15 countries will be set up in the Stepdown Lounge, ELWC, she said.

Today and Friday there will be folk dancing, movies and presentations from noon to 1 p.m. in the Varsity Theater, Miss Charoenying said. Students are invited to learn a new dance or enjoy an international movie.

A "mini-United Nations" will be held Thursday with international students discussing political issues, such as Iranian students' views of the Islamic revolution, said Jamileh Zainefjad, president of the International Student Association.

On Thursday there will also be a dinner and fashion show. Students from various countries will model their native dress. The dinner will include dishes from more than seven foreign countries, Miss Charoenying said. The dinner will be in the Stepdown Lounge, SFLC, and will cost $3.50. Tickets are available through the International Office in 120 BRMB, ext. 2695. No tickets will be sold at the door.

There will be an International Spectacular with music and dances from various countries Thursday at 7 p.m. in the Wilkinson Center Ballroom. There is no charge.

Besides the formal activities, several international clubs will have "open house" booths set up at various points on campus during the week, said Miss Charoenying.

She said she hoped BYU students would use International Week to get better acquainted with foreign peoples and their customs.

"You can read about a country in a newspaper or listen to a lecture, but the best way to get to know a country and its people is to see and talk a native from that country.

"We want to share our countries with the students on campus. International Week is a re-opportunity for other people to find out more about us," she said.

"This campus claims to be a worldwide campus," added Zainefjad. "We hope that with International Week we will contribute to this aspect of this university."

Franklin says witness 'lying'

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The prosecution rested its case Monday and defense attorneys began calling witnesses in the federal civil rights trial of accused racist Joseph Paul Franklin, in a morning session marked by Franklin calling another prosecution witness a liar.

Monday's outburst was similar to one Friday in which Franklin tried to shout down a former Salt Lake County Jail cellmate who testified Franklin had admitted shooting two young joggers to death here.

Franklin is being tried on charges of violating the civil rights of the two black men by killing them as they jogged with two white teen-age girls near a city park Aug. 20.

Prosecution witness Robert Herrera took the stand Monday to describe a jailhouse conversation he claimed to have had with Franklin on Feb. 12.

Herrera testified Franklin told him of shooting Fields and Martin from a dirt mound in a vacant lot near the park.

"He said there was a pile of dirt," Herrera said. "He figured he could hide behind it and shoot."

"He said he saw two black guys and two girls jogging. He waited for them to get up close and he fired seven or eight shots."

Remaining seated at the defense table, Franklin calmly said: "He's lying. You're lying, Herrera."

United Nations dismisses South Africa from assembly

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — South Africa, twice before expelled from the U.N. General Assembly, was kicked out again Monday.

The world body voted 112-22 with six abstentions to accept a credentials committee's recommendation that South Africa not be seated because its white-minority government does not represent the majority of South African people.

The United States voted to accept the South African delegation, and voted against the committee recommendation on the floor. Costa Rica and Spain abstained and the other committee members — the Soviet Union, China, Angola, Kenya, Haiti and Singapore — voted not to seat the delegation.

South African Foreign Minister R.F. Botha said in Johannesburg the decision was "scandalous and revengeful."

South Africa was expelled from the assembly's 1974 regular session on grounds it was practicing racial segregation at home and holding onto Southwest Africa, known here as Namibia, in violation of U.N. resolutions.

The South African delegation returned to the assembly at a resumed session on Southwest Africa in June 1979, but on another African initiative, it was expelled again. Its reappearance in the assembly Monday was the first since then.

South Africa administered Namibia after seizing the territory from the Germans during World War I. The United Nations, successor to the League of Nations, ended the mandate in 1966 but South Africa has refused to withdraw.

Professional musical tackles Cervantes

By Mara Callister
Asst. Entertainment Editor

When a new production company chooses to produce a "best of the year" musical on a top-quality stage with a director who has played lead nine times and carefully hand-picked it can almost insure its success. And if the script is "Man of La Mancha," the sound stage is the Osmond Studio, the director is Robert Peterson (Robert Goulet's replacement as Sir Lancelot in Broadway's

"Camelot") and the audience is theater-loving Mormons, the show is a success.

On opening night, "The Knight of the Wonderful Countenance" and his Lady Dulcinea drew more than a standing ovation from the crowd; they also drew tears. Everyone acted and sang exquisitely. Unlike the younger talent in a BYU production, the cast in "Man of La Mancha" is professional and has a finesse and believability that the best campus shows lack.

Particularly fine acting takes place during the scene in which a violent gang at a roadside inn molests

Aldonza, "the Kitchen slut." As the men rough up the woman, played by Kristen Hurst-Hyde, the audience grew frigid opening night, feeling the bitterness in her spit and the despair in her cries.

"Man of La Mancha" is a play within a play with the newly imprisoned Cervantes, played by the director Robert Peterson, creating the story of the Spanish Knight Don Quixote for the benefit of his fellow prisoners. Peterson makes the transitions between his imprisoned tax-collector and his idealistic Knight clean and effective. The show's only problem is its inadequacy in explaining the antics of Don Quixote for those who do not already know his character.

However, the studio, itself, is by far the greater problem. Students should arrive early to the play because there is no reserved seating. The seats located immediately under the speakers blast the ears of their occupants. And students sitting on the chairs placed to the sides of the stage will crane their necks all evening to glimpse even a portion of the floor-level set.

But those who know who Cervantes is and who can get seats on the studio's raised, center platform will have to

Synthesis to perform

Synthesis, BYU's jazz ensemble, will perform with two guest artists Saturday at 8 p.m. in the deJong Concert Hall.

The two musicians are Gary Foster, woodwind specialist and director of the Nova Music Studios in Pasadena, and Robert Taylor, jazz trumpeter and member/director of Synthesis while a student at BYU.

Foster has performed as a member of television orchestras for Carol

Burnett, Lou Grant, Midnight Special and The Tonight Show. In addition, he has participated in orchestras for motion pictures like Love Story, Funny Lady, Popeye and Xanadu.

Taylor, currently an instructor in jazz studies at Pasadena City College, set a precedent at the Pacific Coast Collegiate Jazz Festival at Berkeley in 1978 when he received the Best Trumpet Soloist awards in both the big band and the combo divisions.

Candidates for ASBYU positions

President/Executive Vice President

CAROL S. BAKER

Baker-Novak

Platform: "If elected, we promise to:"

- Move the social office to the library.
- Build a BYU at Disneyland.
- Institute mandatory weigh-ins for coeds and minimum height for males.
- Have random grade selection.
- Bring Yoda here as a philosophy teacher.
- Give tuition rebates to single female graduates.
- Keep Jim McMahon here until we play Georgia.
- Bring peace to the Middle East.
- Get Russia out of Afghanistan.
- Put an escalator up Heart Attack Hill.
- Put an ice cream parlor in the testing center.
- Work to abolish ASBYU.
- Try!

Miss Baker is a junior from Murray, Utah, majoring in history. Novak is a senior from Roscoe, Ill., majoring in political science.

STEVEN RUDGER CLAWSON

MARK SWEENEY

Clawson-Sweeney

Platform: "We want to make ASBYU more of a friend to the students, rather than a hideaway for government undertakings. If we try to solve the needs of the majority of students rather than make ourselves 'comfortable,' we can make BYU a much more exciting and enjoyable place to learn and be a part of."

Student needs:

- Promote the investigation as to the effectiveness and necessity of some G.E. evaluation tests.
- Greater publication as to the actual benefits and facilities that the students are paying for and not using.
- Investigate the possibility of more parking and the actual necessity of all 'A' parking lots and visitor parking.
- Denounce the grade inflation proposal which has been placed upon the teachers and students. Some teachers choose to enforce it and others don't, resulting in an inconsistency in the students' GPAs. If the students who enter BYU are, indeed, in the top 70 percent, then logically they should earn higher grades than students at other universities.
- Fix the doors on the Abraham O. Smoot Building.

Clawson, a junior from San Rafael, Calif., majoring in justice administration, describes himself as "motivated and assertive." He was an intern for Utah legislatures and says he has a "good knowledge of political bureaucracy."

Sweeney, a sophomore from Ada, Okla., majoring in business management, says he is qualified for the position of ASBYU executive vice president because he has "extensive high school and church service."

HARRY COLTER

LOREN LEWIS

Colter-Lewis

Platform: "When thousands of Saguaro die annually in Arizona, we clocks the world over are being wound, when fried termites are still with from our Western diets, we feel that BYU students should finally make world their campus; we admit it may be difficult to commute."

"Not only should there be stronger student involvement in 'real' issues, there should be greater respect for student status. Benefits should exist where benefits are due: ASBYU royalty and their court of 'friends.'"

"Finally, we emerge as political saviors to those underprivileged who have no 'friends in high places.' Be a friend!"

Colter, who has previously worked in the culture office and student defender's office, is a first year law student. He is a member of the student association.

Lewis, a senior from Idaho Falls, Idaho, majoring in zoology and international relations, describes himself as "arrogant." He says he is qualified to serve as executive vice president, since he has "visited the Trinity Monastery in Huntsville, Utah for one week."

KAYLE M. STEPHENS

Decker-Stephens

Platform: "Our slogan, 'Vote Decker/Stephens or we'll shoot this dog,' reflects our feelings that ASBYU has been in the dog house too long. Like most of the rest of the students we have polled, we are 'dog tired' of not being told what's going on in ASBYU. We plan to move the presidential office down to the Stepdown Lounge, ELWC, to make ourselves more accessible to the student body, put a weekly progress report in The Daily Universe and begin formation of a student congress among the various colleges. If we are not elected we will be forced to shoot our dog."

Decker is a junior majoring in American studies from Provo, Utah. As qualifications for the office of ASBYU president, he lists his membership in Toastmasters International Club, Big Brother Association, and Utah PTA. Stephens says he feels especially qualified for the job of ASBYU executive vice president because he thinks he "can do a better job than they have." He is a junior majoring in business management from Provo, Utah.

RAMSEY EL WARDANI

GREG BOWEN

El Wardani-Bowen

Platform: "We have chosen not to run on standard platform issues (ticket distribution, parking programs and short-term crusades), but with this new attitude. We believe it is the duty of the executive council of ASBYU to enhance the academic, cultural, physical and social standards of student life. To be effective, we will continue to be involved with the student body, as we have demonstrated in our years at BYU. Only we can bring the 4th floor down to ground level. We know you, and you know us."

El Wardani describes himself as having the "patience, strong understanding and relationship with the student body" to enable him to serve as ASBYU president. He is a sophomore majoring in university studies from La Jolla, Calif.

KARL (KASEY) HAWS

DON F. BIGGER

Haws-Bigger

Platform: "Among other pressing concerns, we believe in, and deliver, the following:

- A student senate, giving you a more representative student government;
- Immediately moving executive council meetings to the L. Theater, ELWC, and conducting them with an open 'city council' format;
- A student tenant association to help you resolve your housing problems;
- Forming the first public relations board designed to promote 'h town' coverage of BYU students striving for excellence;
- Increasing the number of free phones on campus;
- Reactivating the office of freshman class president;
- Making greater use of the forum speakers' time via 'challenge debates, etc."

As qualifications for the office of ASBYU president, Haws lists "over years of experience in ASBYU, which gives me the opportunity to offer students experienced leadership." He is a senior from Santa Barbara, Calif., majoring in English and pre-law. Haws was previously ASBYU attorney general, ASBYU commons court judge, ASBYU student defender and member of the University Traffic Committee.

Bigger says his qualifications for ASBYU executive vice president "leadership, management, administrative experience and a vision of what should, and can, be done by ASBYU." He is a senior from Bremerton, Wash., majoring in family financial planning and counseling. Bigger previously ASBYU ombudsman, director of ASBYU Money Management Center and associate member of International Ombudsman Institute.

ROXANNE LARSON

J.L. LLAVINA

Larson-Llavina

Platform: "As soon as empowered to do so, we will:

- Evaluate the ticket distribution with student input and vote.
- Waive half of our tuition benefits if elected.
- Provide a simplified explanation of the G.E. program.
- Justify each ASBYU expenditure.
- Provide more effective and informative orientation for freshmen and transfer students.
- Cut the complimentary tickets allotted to ASBYU.
- Open ASBYU budget and other records to The Daily Universe examination.
- Provide a 'cry room' in the Varsity Theater, ELWC.
- Provide lectures and/or information to help students relate to the 'outside world,' especially in employment situations.
- Lobby the Utah Legislature for changes in tenant/landlord laws."

Miss Larson, a senior from Wayzata, Minn., majoring in IPA accounting, lists her qualifications for the office of ASBYU president as "extensive leadership experience in planning and administering budgets in a business organization."

Llavina, a sophomore from Buenos Aires, Argentina, majoring in business management, says he is qualified for the position of ASBYU executive vice president because he has "important organizational, counseling and activity planning skills."

MICHAEL M. MINER

JUDY MESTAS

Miner-Mestas

Platform: "Considerable ASBYU service gives us the experience necessary to effectively implement our campaign platform:

- An open, monthly forum with the executive council and the administration which all students could attend.
- A common's room where students, faculty and administration may interact on a more personal level.
- A freshman lecture series dealing with specific concerns of new BYU students.
- A multi-cultural council.
- A career-education week to provide information on majors and job opportunities for students."

Miner, a junior from Long Beach, Calif., majoring in pre-dentistry, has served as an executive assistant in both the ASBYU president's and academic's office.

Miss Mestas, a senior from Seal Beach, Calif., majoring in interpersonal communications, has worked in the ombudsman's office and is currently ASBYU women's vice president.

BILL WINFIELD

DOUG STONE

Winfield-Stone

Platform: "Involving students is the most important thing student officers can do. The best way to do that is to let students have a voice in decisions that are made. We will work to establish student committees every university department. On the ASBYU level, we will work for every student input by establishing a student senate and executive council advisory groups. We will hold executive council meetings in public places on campus and even hold step-down lounge 'office hours.' We will work to get action taken by the people who can really change things."

Winfield, a junior from Oxnard, Calif., majoring in business management, was previously ASBYU organization vice president.

Stone is a junior from Provo, majoring in communications, who describes himself as having been "personally endorsed by a general authority."

Matmen top tough competition

Four Cougar wrestlers will find the wrestling season longer than normal after qualifying for the NCAA finals to be held in Princeton, N.J., in two weeks.

BYU's Chris Taylor (118), Morgan Woodhouse (134), Billy Boyd (167) and Jeff Needs (177) qualified for the NCAA finals, with the first three winning regional championships this weekend at San Luis Obispo, Calif.

Taylor and Boyd scored major upsets in the tournament, defeating wrestlers who had beaten them earlier in the season.

Taylor downed Roger DeSart of Nevada-Las Vegas, 4-4, 6-4 in overtime. DeSart had beaten Taylor on two previous occasions this year.

Boyd also won in overtime, defeating Dale Walters of the Air Force Academy, 4-4, 4-0. Walters had beaten Boyd during the previous week to capture the Western Athletic Conference title at 167 pounds.

Woodhouse decided Chris DeLong of Cal-Poly, 7-6, to win his weight division and qualify for nationals. Needs qualified by finishing second with a loss to Gary Chadwick of the Air Force Academy, 12-5.

Still, regionals brought a few disappointments to the Cougars.

Heavyweight Larry Hamilton lost his championship match to Paul Spieler of Cal-Poly, 5-4. Then, because Hamilton had not wrestled the winner of the consolation bracket, a "true second" match was wrestled. In the "true second" match, Hamilton lost to Rick Chandler of Southern Oregon, 5-4, and failed to qualify for nationals. BYU had a chance to qualify two other wrestlers for "true second" and a shot at nationals, but Robert Steele lost to Larry Ching of Air Force, 2-2, 5-1, in overtime and Chad Teichert was defeated by CSU's John Fagen, 11-6.

Women cagers tie for 1st with Utah

The next stop for the women's basketball season is the Region VII Championships after finishing the season as co-champions with Utah in the Intermountain Athletic Conference's Western Division.

The Cougars ended their 9-1 season last weekend with victories over Wyoming and Colorado State.

On Saturday, junior Jackie McBride and freshman Lori Vreeken each scored 25 points to lead the team to a 97-78 victory over Colorado State.

BYU bombed Wyoming 101-67 behind a team effort of 59 points in the first half on Friday.

The victories boost the Cougars to a 20-7 season record, giving Coach Courtney Leishman his fourth 20-win season in a row.

Newspapers and other debris are scattered around the area where the BYU bench was located in Wyoming's Memorial Fieldhouse. Numerous kinds of garbage were thrown at BYU players and personnel during last week's game.

Sports Line

By Kevin Stoker

Hanging from the top of Wyoming's Memorial Fieldhouse are two large signs with the words "Good Sportsmanship: The Sign of a True Fan."

Ironically, the Cowboy cheering section showed little sportsmanship, and in response, BYU coach Frank Arnold is filing an official protest to the Western Athletic Conference.

The noise volume was great but the obscenities of the crowded student section were simply appalling. When BYU's starting five was announced, the Cowboy student section, located directly behind the Cougar bench, was a mass of newspapers. During the announcement of the Wyoming players, the newspapers were crumpled up and thrown in the direction of the BYU bench.

Throughout the remainder of the game a barrage of plastic cups, ice, fruit and any other object the fans could get their hands on were

Netters lose to Utes 8-1

Rich Bohne took the only victory from University of Utah Saturday night as BYU lost 8-1.

Bohne defeated Jeff Wallace, 0-6, 6-4, 7-5.

The No.4 singles had the closest match, with Mike Codiga and Utah's Mark Wagner. Codiga had two match points but lost 2-6, 6-2, 7-6.

Wyoming joins Y, Utah in poll

Oregon State, the only major undefeated college team in the nation, was the near unanimous choice to retain the No.1 slot in The Associated Press college basketball poll Monday.

For the first time this season, three WAC schools are rated in the nation's top 20. After losing 86-84 in two overtimes to Wyoming last week, BYU dropped three spots to 18th, Utah, another victim of the Cowboys, fell two notches to ninth and Wyoming, on the strength of its two upsets, made its first appearance among the nation's elite at 19th.

Oregon State, 25-0, received 60 of 61 first place votes and 1,219 points — one less than the maximum — in the balloting by a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters. The Beavers, who now hold the nation's longest winning streak at 25, posted triumphs over Washington, Southern Cal and No.13 UCLA last week in clinching at least a tie for the Pac-10 title.

DePaul, which was ranked fourth last week, took over the No.2 slot as Louisiana State and Virginia, Nos.2 and 3, respectively, a week ago, slipped a notch after being upset.

ROTC hosts blood drive

Students and faculty will get a chance to break the blood-drive record when the BYU Army ROTC sponsors a Red Cross blood drive today through Friday.

Blood donations will be taken from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Wilkinson Center Main Ballroom balcony.

The record amount of units of blood donated during a blood drive at BYU is 815 units, said Army Cadet Evan Matheson, blood drive committee chairman. The figure was set in March of 1979 at an ROTC-sponsored drive.

The ROTC wants to break its existing record by acquiring 900 units of blood this week, said Matheson. Anyone 17 to 65 years of age who is in good health and weighs more than 110 pounds may donate, he said. Participants must have eaten within three to four hours before donating.

In case breaking the record is not enough incentive, said Matheson, the ROTC will pay for the cost of the drive.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars may be saved, according to motion was passed in the Provo City Commission meeting to contract with David M. Griffiths and Associates, Ltd., a California-based firm who will perform the study for the city government.

Jed Christensen, city treasurer, said the firm will determine the specific cost allocation for services performed within the city and the cost allocation of services performed for the federal government.

Service costs
He said the cost for these services is normally allocated to the general fund which is made up of tax revenues.

Blaine Hall, city auditor, said the firm will help determine which costs the government will accept as between the undergraduate and graduate history students. The public is invited. Professor Ferner J. Slavin, University of Louisville, will be the guest lecturer for the week.

Attention Math 110 students
Finalization will be in class Wednesday. Any student who needs to add or drop a module must finalize. Any student who cannot finalize in class Wednesday should see a Math 110 instructor prior to that date.

YOUNG UNIVERSITY
Developing a Healthy Self-Image
How do you feel about yourself? Many of our actions and values are based on the feelings we have about our self-worth. In no other area is a positive opinion so important.
Negative self-concept is a major human problem which results in enormous personal and economic costs.
Learn practical guides for the enhancement of self-concept in this new course which has become one of the most popular of offerings of the BYU Division of Continuing Education.
"This course is vital to all people, it should be taught to every student at BYU. It should be a daytime class!"
"I loved this course. I would like to spend a couple more weeks in it. It should be a requirement for everyone!"
The basic course concepts are scripturally based, having been distilled from the standard works and the teachings of the past and present presidents of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.
The following topics will be discussed:
• The fundamental characteristics possessed by the inner self of each individual
• The origin and development of the substitute self that emerges as a defense against the negative experiences of life
• How the real self can deal with the substitute self
